

Erie Railroad's 14th St. Freight Station and Team Tracks at Chicago.

Improving Erie's freight facilities at CHICAGO

With the opening of its new FOURTEENTH STREET FREIGHT HOUSE in Chicago The Erie Railroad has provided its shippers with vastly improved facilities at its western terminus.

The station is served by wide concrete driveways and its seven tracks have a capacity of 105 cars. The loading of side and end door equipment is accelerated by the use of concrete ramps. The team tracks just north of Fourteenth Street have been relaid to serve the station to better advantage.

The CANAL STREET YARD has loading and unloading platforms for automobiles, and is equipped with wide driveways and team tracks.

These improvements at Chicago are further reasons why shippers favor The Heavy Duty Railroad.
