First in War—First in Peace— The Industrial Heart of America

It wasn't by chance that the great industrial heart of America centered in six states.

In this area nature lavishly provided the essential requirements for industrial expansion—coal, petroleum, iron ore, gas, lumber, sand, lime, salt, agricultural products, and basic materials for plastics!

As a result, from "The Erie Area" comes a great volume of the world's supply of steel, rubber, glass, furniture, footwear, automobiles, airplanes, precision and heavy tools, clothing, and electrical supplies.

And this great industrial heart of America is amazing the world with its production of war materials just as it leads in the manufacture of peacetime products.

Here is a place where you can achieve the fulfillment of your immediate and future plans for industrial progress. Not only can you enjoy the natural advantages of this area but have America's largest markets right at your door.

For your copy of the new illustrated map of "The Erie Area" and information, write George F. Weston, Industrial Commissioner, Erie Railroad, Midland Building, Cleveland 15, Ohio.
